Chokers, Circles to Slow Traffic On Breezewood & Hanover Pkwy.

by Diane Oberg

At a June 1 worksession, the Greenbelt City Council heard an update from Celia Craze, director of planning and community development on her staff's review of traffic calming techniques and their assessment of how such techniques could be applied in the city. A few traffic calming measures, such as speed humps on Northway and the placement of bollards on the shoulder of Hanover Parkway to prevent drivers from using the shoulder to go around cars waiting to turn into Hunting Ridge, are already in place. The next calming measures are likely to happen on Hanover Parkway near Schrom Hills Park and along Breezewood Drive in Springhill Lake, where outside funding is available.

First Projects

These projects will be discussed at the June 22 regular council meeting. Because they involve major "collector" roads in the city, Craze says, the full process need not be followed as there is communitywide impact. The first one discussed was Breezewood Drive in Springhill Lake. The city has received Community Development Block Grant Funds for repaving the road. Craze says that traffic studies showed that 85 percent of the traffic is exceeding the speed limit by more than 10 mph. The main reason, she believes, is that during the day, when there are few cars parked along the shoulders, the road is 36 feet wide with no interruptions between Cherrywood Lane and Edmonston Road. Motorists can trimmed and streetlight arms will be extended.

The initial bids for the repaving project are well below budget, Craze said, and her staff is trying to negotiate a price for adding the traffic calming devices. She does not expect that the additional work will add more easily go around turning vehicles, there is a slight incline and it is a long road — all factors that allow people to accelerate. She presented a proposed design introducing chokers and islands, which will narrow the roadway width to slow traffic and improve pedestrian safety. The changes would reduce on-street parking by about 20 spaces, she said. Every intersection will have either a choker, or an island and choker to eliminate the opportunity for motorists to illegally pass a turning vehicle. In locations where parking lot entrances are close to intersections, medians will be extended to prevent left hand turns into those entrances. To improve lighting and safety, trees will be than $20,000 to the repaving cost.

The second project involves Hanover Parkway near Schrom Hills Park where a developer is required to make road improvements. Originally, the city had called for installation of a bypass lane, to allow motorists to go around drivers waiting to turn left. However, after the city closed the shoulder near Hunting Ridge to eliminate bypass movements, Craze said the staff reconsidered. Now she recommends eliminating the bypass lane, which would provide space for a median. These changes would "introduce a little delay" in traffic and provide a stopping point for pedestrians trying to cross the road.

Police Called to Middle School Ceremony at ERHS

by James Giese

They say that parents don't take enough interest in their children these days, but that wasn't the case Monday, June 15 when parents, family members and friends turned out in record numbers to attend promotion (graduation) ceremonies for Greenbelt Middle School. In fact, so many turned out for the event held at Eleanor Roosevelt High School that the crowd, estimated at between 1,000 and 1,300, far exceeded the capacity of the 850 seat auditorium. The overabundance of celebrants spoiled the ceremony for many, particularly for those who could not squeeze into the auditorium, and resulted in an unhappy confrontation of parents and friends with police and fire marshalls. This resulted in the promotion ceremony being cut short and a reception planned to follow in the school cafeteria being cancelled.

With people crowding into the auditorium aisles and blocking the exits, school personnel were forced to close the doors. According to Greenbelt Police, one school security officer was pushed aside, which allowed an extra 100 people to force their way into the auditorium. An eyewitness told Jim Handly of WRC Channel 4 News that "The aisles were full, everything was full, you know. You really couldn't sit down. People were just everywhere."

Reinforcements

Recognizing that the school security people were unable to control the crowd, the Greenbelt School Resource Officer called the Greenbelt Police Department and the Prince George's County Fire Marshal's Office for reinforcements. Police urged the overflow crowd to wait in the cafeteria, but those who did found only light refreshments there. One woman told Handly that "They said we could go to the cafeteria, but there was nothing in the cafeteria to watch on. They didn't care, they wanted people away from the door."

Another man complained to Handly, "We came up here to see our kids graduate and then you want to see our kids graduate in somewhere big enough. This is

County Budget Benefits City In Grants, Capital Projects

by Diane Oberg

At the regular Greenbelt City Council meeting on June 8, County Councilmember Audrey Scott reported on recent actions by the County Council, principally the recently adopted budget. Mayor Judith Davis thanked Scott for her action in obtaining passage of county legislation permitting Greenbelt to assume additional planning and zoning responsibilities. Scott in turn praised Davis and the city council for their cooperation in appearing before the county council when Scott asked them to and staying away when she felt that would be more useful.

Scott announced grant awards to several Greenbelt organizations. Each councilmember has a pool of grant funds to allocate among worthwhile programs in their district. Scott's Greenbelt grants for the upcoming budget year (which starts July 1) include:

$5,000 for Greenbelt CARES, $3,000 for the Advisory Committee on Education, $1,000 for the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club, $1,250 toward a computer for the Greenbelt Aquatic Boosters, $2,000 for Greenbelt Arts Center's youth program and $2,000 toward renovation of the Mother and Child statue at Roosevelt Center.

The adopted budget also included park and planning grants for Greenbelt: $25,000 for the community center, $12,000 for the therapeutic recreation program, and $12,000 for art programs and services.

In addition, several county capital projects will benefit the city. These include $30,000 to control yard flooding on Landon Court in Green Spring, $130,000 for channel improvement to relieve street flooding, $500,000 for the Lakewood storm drainage

Magnolia Elementary Is Winner In "It's Municipal Government"

by Beverly Palau

City Public Information and Communications Coordinator

The City of Greenbelt's fourth annual "It's Municipal Government" contest pitted top teams from Greenbelt Elementary, Greenbelt Middle, Magnolia Elementary and Springhill Lake Elementary on April 24. Each team was made up of the five sixth grade students from each school who had the best scores on the "It's Municipal Government" quiz given to the students earlier in the program. However, Springhill Lake Elementary bravely competed with a team of fifth graders, the top grade currently at that school. Five alternates from each school were on hand to cheer on their team.

After a short introduction by Michael McLaughlin, the city manager, the teams were ready to compete. The game show host, Joe McNeal, presented the first question which began the heated first round of the contest. Testing out a new buzzer system designed by Bill McNeal, the students eagerly buzzed in to be recognized. As each question was asked in this five minute round, the students once again proved that Municipal Government was no mystery to them. They answered questions ranging from the definition of "Home Rule" to where the Community Center was located. When the dust finally cleared from the first round, it seemed that the contest would be between three time winner, Greenbelt Elementary and the newcomer, Greenbelt Middle School.

The second round, a relay race that tested the students' knowledge of the city departments, gave Magnolia and Springhill Lake the opportunity to show that they were not out of the contest. All would be left to the final bonus round, the organizational chart.

In the final "bonus round" each team was given a minute to place ten cards in the proper place on a blank city organizational chart. Greenbelt Elementary went first and impressively ended up with a total of 210 points for the contest. Greenbelt Middle School then followed, and although they gave Greenbelt Elementary a run for their money, they came up just short with a

Letters to the Editor

The Heart of the Issue

This is in response to the letter by Jim Cassels regarding more parking spaces at Green Ridge House. With the exception of recognizing that more parking spaces are needed, Mr. Cassels has missed the boat on the heart of the issue.

Due to the shortage of parking spaces, residents are more than reluctant to leave the building in the evenings because of the fear there will not be a parking space when they return. 81% of the residents are single women and most of the 101 residents are over 65 years of age. We are a very vulnerable population and unfortunately fear for our safety on the streets at night. The parking problem has severely curtailed our lifestyles.

Mr. Cassels solution of additional parking spaces on Ridge Road will not alleviate the parking shortage of Green Ridge residents. The second portion of the solution also makes no sense. He suggests that Greenbelt purchase a hybrid electric car for Green Ridge House to be used as a rental vehicle for residents, which he feels would save residents the cost of keeping their cars. How Mr. Cassels feels that having one rental car shared by over 50 drivers would help, I'm not sure. We who own cars and drive willingly accept the responsibility of owning and maintaining our own personal vehicles. We are not asking for a rental car or a taxi service or volunteers to drive for us. Would Mr. Cassels suggest that the city purchase hybrid cars for rental use by the residents of Greenbelt to spare them the cost of owning their own vehicles?

A simple solution exists which has already been presented by the City Engineer. Ample space is available behind our building. Money is available for the parking lot addition. In order for this additional lot to be built, an access road will have to be built. A small amount of vegetation and a large dumpster surrounded by fencing will have to be moved. It has been suggested to delay construction because the access road will be in view of neighboring houses. The argument is that a dumpster is more aesthetically pleasing than a small access road? Green Ridge House is known for its beautifully landscaped grounds and that reputation will continue with new vegetation bordering the access road. A few trees may need to be removed. The trees in question will be replaced with young live trees which will benefit the community for years to come.

This issue has been discussed ad nauseum for several years. In the interim, the residents suffer. Mr. Cassels stated that "most of the residents who are advocating the rear parking lot would much rather park in front of the building than to have to go around to the rear to park their car." In fact, at our April meeting, the residents took a vote and overwhelmingly decided they preferred the option of a parking lot in back without fear or qualm. How sad we must continue to fight for what is just and fair, even with one of our own. But to give up means to give up a great part of our lives: the ability to be mobile, enjoy evening activities, and remain independent. Who should be asked to pay such a price?

Marian Evans

Not a Single Solution

The letter on Green Ridge House parking by Jim Cassels in the News Review of June 11 has much merit. However, I would like to make two points:

The parking problem at Green Ridge House affects a large area. Residents of GHI in courts on Ridge Road complain that Green Ridge House cars take up space on much of Ridge Road, leaving them no place to park. As a former resident of two GHI courts, I know that parking is a big concern in large parts of the city.

Secondly other solutions need to be considered. There is much level land on both sides of Ridge Road. Much of this land has no trees and parking spaces could be built inexpensively. Thus far the city and Green Ridge House have been focusing on a single site for the solution. Two, three or four sites may be the way to go.

Decision Time

On Sunday, June 14, 1998, sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m., a tall maple tree fell across the lake path next to the Maplewood Court steps. Most of its trunk had been eaten last fall by beavers. The tiny spindle at its center finally gave way. Perhaps no one was injured. This time.

There are many trees around the lake similarly afflicted. Will the next one land on a team of little leaguers on a warm-up run? Will it crush a child in a stroller, or the frail bones of an elderly walker, or a family pet?

Members of city council now know enough about beavers to teach classes at the Patuxent Wildlife Center. One member has been heard to call for a "Beaver Management Policy." Such tunnel vision fails to include the health and safety of human beings and the conservation of a city treasure.

Please, good people, do not wait for a tragedy to identify the issues and make some decisions.

total of 195 points. Now it was Magnolia's turn. Magnolia needed a perfect score on the final round in order to earn the 50 extra bonus points that would put them on top. As the answers were read off, the tension grew. After a slight hesitation it was evident that Magnolia had received a perfect score of 100 on this round plus 50 bonus points to come out ahead of Greenbelt Elementary with 230 points! But the contest was still not over. Springhill Lake now had its chance to move up in the rankings. With excellent teamwork, the young team managed to get nine of ten correct in this round, just one short of a perfect score and the bonus points. The Springhill Lake team showed the older teams that they were up for the challenge with a total of 140 points.

All in all, the contest was a great success. Each team brought back nice checks from the city to their classes. The team members and alternates also received t-shirts from Capital Tees, pizza from 3 Brothers, certificates and various prizes provided by the city. Once again, the students showed that the future of Municipal Government will be in good hands.

The "It's Municipal Government" program is an annual competition to commemorate Municipal Government Week. The city council sets aside funding for this program. It is also assisted by donations from local businesses. The city's Community Promotions and Recreation Departments work together to provide this educational program to Greenbelt's sixth graders. Teachers from each school work with the children to prepare them for the contest. Congratulations and thanks to all of the participants: Magnolia - First Place - Andrea Owens, Lynnette Smith, Hae Rin Chung, Swathi Dirakarla, and Chitanya Gopal. Greenbelt Elementary - Second Place - Kyle Benson, Mary Fominaya, Jasmine Milligan, Stephen Scionnella and Melody Rogers. Greenbelt Middle School - Third Place - Sehba Khan, Latecia Harrison, Allison Payne, Jennifer Guerrero, and Meraj Chowdhury. Springhill Lake Elementary School - Fourth Place - Emmanuel Garcia, Erin Easterly, Bridget Barnes, Rigoberto Guerrero and James Steele.

by Dennis Jelalian

The Greenbelt Photography Club free exhibit in the Senior Gallery at the Community Center 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. continues through June 21. Call ahead to be sure the room is accessible, 301-397-2208.

The exhibit features photographs of "Hidden Greenbelt," parts of Greenbelt you may have seen but not really noticed or looked at. Most of the photographs are tightly focused on one object or one small scene.

"159" shows the Greenbelt Auto and Truck Repair. Greenbelt is an art deco town but sometimes we forget that. One of art deco's preoccupations is with primary shapes: circles, squares, triangles, and rectangles. The photograph "159" by Phillip Payette forces us to look at a humble garage in a new way. Rectangles dance across the scene like notes in a jazz score. And cutting percussively across the foreground is a dark triangular shadow, and at the apex of the triangle, a child.

Timothy Edberg has (at least) two noteworthy pictures, "Rumble Seat" and "Holly Sprig in Fresh Snow."

"Rumble Seat" shows what's left of a car being wrecked. Who drove this car? What were they like? It all seems long ago. You can't tell the year, make or model of the car. It's all just now iron rusting away to nothing in Mama Nature's recycling machine. It raises questions of history, the future, our nature, our destiny. What are we DOING here? And where are we going? And how are we going to get there?

The title adds more layers of meaning. Rumble seats haven't been put on cars in perhaps 70 years. What's happened to us during that time? "Rumble Seat" suggests the clatter and the roar of the highway. Where are we going in such a rush? "Rumble" suggests a gang fight and violence. Were the people in the car killed in the crash? Now all is silence.

For all the somber thoughts the photograph is ambiguous and playful, two of Edberg's favorite themes. The leaves calmly begin to cover a decent burial and absorb the rusting bulk. A broken branch lies across the junk. The bent car parallels the branch, becomes a living stalk growing out of the ground seeking the light. Rebirth. Regeneration. Iron-y.

"Holly Sprig in Fresh Snow" is just that — perfect.

By using a longish lens, Edward J. Pastula managed to flatten out a number of overlapping school buses. This amusing picture is reminiscent of Marcel Duchamp's "Nude Descending a Staircase." I'd call it "Bus Descending a Hill."

Sorry there's not room to talk about all the other good pictures.

"Each image can surprise us into seeing with new insight and altogether they can teach us the wonder of looking at everyday life with newly opened eyes," comments Barbara Simon, Director, Children's Programs, Greenbelt Association for the Visual Arts.

Free Mammography

The GW (George Washington University) Mammovan, the area's only mobile mammography unit, will be providing no-cost mammograms to eligible women at seven Safeway stores throughout the month of June. The project is a collaborative effort by GW's Breast Care Center, Safeway, WJLA Channel 7, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, the U.S. Health Care Financing Administration, and the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc.

The mammograms are being offered at no cost to women without health insurance as a result of a grant from the National Race for the Cure Foundation. The store nearest Greenbelt is 4600 Coopers Lane, Landover Hills, where the mammovan will be on Wed., June 24, from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

New Deal Cafe News

by Marsha Barrett

The main topic of discussion at the new Deal Cafe's managers' meeting June 2 was the upcoming annual meeting to be held in the Cafe, Tuesday, June 30 at 7:30 p.m. The most pressing issues were the need for volunteers and election of new board members. Board President Pat Brent noted the enormous effort a shrinking core of volunteers currently provide the Cafe and wondered how long the Cafe could continue as attrition cut into the number of volunteers offering to come to one 2-hour shift a month. Brent and current manager, Peggy Barott, who work the bulk of the hours needed to run the Cafe, said they could not maintain the heavy workload after the June annual meeting.

Lack of help dampened the possibility of pursuing ideas of things managers and patrons wanted to see happen at the Cafe. Without volunteers, the Cafe can not open for the Labor Day Festival or Greenbelt's New Year's Eve party, First Night. Without volunteers the Cafe may close.

Currently, the Cafe is operating on a summer schedule. The hours are Saturday night from 8-11 p.m. and Sunday brunch from 10-3 p.m. Sunday's brunch menu varies according to the day's chef. Previous brunches featured: blueberry pancakes with bacon and potatoes, quiche lorraine, potato pancakes with sour cream, waffles, muffins, scones, and croissants and the usual teas, juices and coffees.

Music has been one of the major attractions at the Cafe. According to Brent, new Music Director Richard McMullen is eager to continue the Cafe's tradition of presenting local talent.

The Cafe's music schedule can be found in the News Review and on the Cafe's website at: http://www2.ari.net/home/gking/new_deal.html, or call 301-474-5642.

by Dolores Capotosto

The Wednesday, June 24, meeting of the Greenbelt Golden Age Club will feature Beverly Hill-Eason as speaker. Her topic will be Ameriplan — a dental, vision and prescription plan.

Although attendance at the June 10 meeting was sparse, there was considerable interest in the speaker's theme "Voluntary Simplicity." More information is available on this topic and there are "circles" which are meeting in the area. The term "de-cluttering" seems to be a timely subject for seniors.

John Taylor, Travel Chair, announced a trip to the Newseum on Friday, June 26, with lunch at the "Old World." A trip to the Longwood Gardens in Delaware will be scheduled for either July 21 or 28. Dinner will be included in the cost, but lunch is on your own.

There is a flyer available at the meetings containing the details for a cruise trip planned for February 1999 if there's enough interest. The twelve-day trip starts with a flight from BWI to San Juan, P.R., cruising the Caribbean and then going through the Panama Canal to Acapulco, Mexico. Since the canal will change hands in the future this would be a last chance while it's still under U.S. control.

Mary Ransom

Mary Atwater Ransom, 87, a retired government secretary and longtime Greenbelt resident, died of congestive heart failure and complications from a stroke on Saturday, June 13, 1998, at Doctors Hospital.

Mrs. Ransom was born in Kingston, Pennsylvania. After graduating as the valedictorian from West Pittston High School, she attended one year of business school in Kings College, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. She married the late William Emery Ransom, Jr. of Scranton in 1937. A daughter was born to the couple in Scranton, and two sons were born after the family had moved to the Washington area during World War II. She lived in Greenbelt for 55 years before moving to an assisted-living facility in Laurel last year.

Mrs. Ransom went to work for the Atomic Energy Commission shortly after the birth of her second son. She worked for the Federal government a total of 24 years, completing her career at the Department of Defense with the National War College.

She was active in the Greenbelt Community Church, serving as the church clerk for four years and as the pianist for Sunday school. Following her retirement in 1972, she devoted much of her time to her six grandchildren. She remained active even though she was wheelchair bound the last eight years. The children and grandchildren took turns escorting her to restaurants and other activities.

Mrs. Ransom is survived by her daughter, Judith R. Bell of Cheverly, and her son, Rick, of Greenbelt, five grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. Her son, William E. Ransom III, was killed in an auto accident in 1963.

Arrangements were made by Gasch's Funeral Home where services were held this morning. Interment will be in West Pittston Cemetery, West Pittston, PA, on Saturday, June 20.

Marvin Nussbaum

Marvin L. Nussbaum died on May 24, 1998, seven weeks after his 74th birthday, of a cerebral thrombosis, while in a nursing home. He and his wife were residents of Boxwood for 33 years, moving here from New York city.

Born in Detroit, he attended grade schools there and in Boston. He retired in 1989 from the Patent and Trademark Office as a primary patent examiner in the electrical engineering group. Mr. Nussbaum, known personally as "Lee," obtained his degree from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, N.Y. and became a member of their staff at Polytech Graduate School in Farmingdale, L.I., N.Y., doing research in the physics lab while working towards his masters.

Lee was an army veteran of World War II, was hospitalized in the Philippines, before being transferred to a San Francisco Army hospital.

He is survived by his wife Elaine and nieces and nephews.

Florence Buonocore

Florence Buonocore, 90, died sitting in her regular seat in the library of Green Ridge House on Tuesday, June 16, 1998 at 5 p.m. with her friends around her.

An original resident of Green Ridge House, Mrs. Buonocore came to the area from the Bronx, N.Y. She came to Greenbelt about 25 years ago, living first in the apartments across from Roosevelt Center.

Mrs. Buonocore was a member of St. Hugh's Catholic Church.

She is survived by her nieces Peg Shorter, Beverly Brooks and Barbara Gardner and nephew Norman Brooks, all of Greenbelt and many nieces and nephews in

TRAFFIC

Councilmember Alan Turnbull noted that left turns from the English Country Manor development onto Hanover Parkway are difficult to make. Although Craze first responded that eliminating the bypass lane would create gaps in traffic that would ease these turns, she quickly agreed to Councilmember Edward Putens' suggestion that a roundabout or circle be considered instead.

Background

These recommendations are the first step towards developing a citywide traffic calming program. The Planning and Community Development staff examined traffic on most city streets, conducted speed surveys, and studied accident volumes and citizen complaints to identify streets with problems that might be addressed with calming techniques.

Traffic calming, she said, takes the approach that streets are intended to be shared by all — motorists, pedestrians, bicyclists, rollerbladers, etc. — without the threat of bodily harm. In contrast, streets are typically designed to accommodate vehicular traffic efficiently, she said. As a result, streets are generally overdesigned, they are too wide and too flat, so people drive too fast. Since studies have found that people generally drive at the speed at which they feel safe, this encourages speeding. For example, she said, Cherrywood Lane is wide with little traffic, so people will not drive 30 m.p.h.

To address this, traffic calming introduces physical measures into the roadway to change drivers' perspectives of the safe speed. Passive techniques are those which attempt to affect driver behavior without physically blocking or modifying drivers' actions. These include crosswalks, education, enforcement, creation of discontinuous routes through use of one way streets, pavement markings and treatments, rumble strips, and signs and signals. Active devices include extension of curbs into the roadway to narrow a travel lane, various types of concrete island, medians and other obstructions, raised crosswalks, speed humps, street closures, and traffic circles and roundabouts.

Plusses and Minuses

Using traffic calming techniques is not a perfect solution, Craze noted. The benefits and disadvantages must be weighed carefully. When properly applied, traffic calming techniques improve the quality of life of those along the affected roadway, and create an improved environment for pedestrians, bicyclists and other roadway users. The disadvantages include slowing people down, reduction in emergency response times, and possibly increased noise (for example, from speed humps or rumble strips). There could also be liability issues if the criteria for installing such devices are not well founded. Since traffic calming devices are only just being accepted in traffic engineering circles, the standards for such devices are still evolving. The city needs objective criteria for determining when to install traffic calming devices and which devices to use. Installing solutions that are "too great" for the problems could create a liability risk, she said.

Proposed Criteria

Craze recommended the following criteria:

Active traffic calming devices should be used only on residential streets where at least 85 percent of the traffic is traveling at least seven miles over the speed limit. Speed humps, which have a greater impact on emergency response teams, should be used only where 85% of the traffic is travelling at least 10 mph over the speed limit.

Passive techniques may be used for locations where the criteria for active devices are not met.

Alternative intersection controls (such as traffic circles and roundabouts) may be used at any intersection where traffic volumes, speeds, accident experiences and traffic characteristics indicate that such controls would be superior to stop and/or yield control.

Neighborhood approval would be required prior to the installation of any active traffic calming device or any alternative intersection control. She recommended requiring approval from 60 percent of the households residing immediately adjacent to the affected streets.

Craze stressed the importance of having objective criteria for the installation of calming devices. Such measures should not be taken to address a perceived problem that cannot be documented through speed studies, accident volumes or other measureable criteria. Likewise, community approval is essential, particularly given the liability issues. This led into some discussion of how to define the affected area.

Craze proposed a four step process — staff evaluation of the problem, discussion with the complainant and the affected homeowners' association, council review including a public hearing and approval by 60 percent of the affected residents.

GREENBELT AQUATIC & FITNESS CENTER

1998 SUMMER CHILDREN'S WEEKDAY LESSONS - SESSION I

In-person registration, first-come, first-served basis. All classes have a limit on enrollment. Early registration improves your chances of getting the class you want!! All registrants must sign up at the Greenbelt Aquatic & Fitness Center for aquatic and fitness classes.

REFUNDS: The Greenbelt Aquatic & Fitness Center reserves the right to cancel classes due to insufficient registrants or causes beyond its control. Refunds will be made if classes are canceled by the Center. Other refunds will be made according to the provisions in the City of Greenbelt Resolution No. 65, which also requires that refund requests, for valid reasons, are to be submitted immediately in writing to the GAFC.

CITY RESIDENCY: Greenbelt residents are those who pay taxes to the City of Greenbelt AND are eligible to vote in City elections. That is as it should be, as our residents pay taxes to support the Recreation Centers and the Aquatic & Fitness Center in our community. However, just because someone has a Greenbelt address, does not necessarily mean they pay taxes to the City of Greenbelt and are able to vote in City elections. We want to be fair to the people whose tax money supports our programs. If you are not sure that you have a Greenbelt address, are able to vote in City elections, and pay City taxes, call 301-397-2204.

All registrants registering as resident non-passholders must show proof to receive Greenbelt resident status. Acceptable Proof: Valid license or current lease.

MAINSTREAMING: Anyone who is physically, mentally, and/or emotionally challenged is encouraged to participate in any of the Aquatic & Fitness Center's programs. If you need any special assistance, please call 301-397-2208 or TTY 301-474-1811 and ask for Karen Haseley.

project (for which, she reported, project design is now complete), and $43,000 for a municipal storm drain acceptance program on Ridge Road.

Other Presentations

City Clerk David Moran was presented with a plaque noting that he had been awarded the designation of Certified Municipal Clerk by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks.

City Manager Michael McLaughlin reported that the state Attorney General included three city programs in a special report, "Spotlight on Prevention," highlighting successful juvenile crime prevention programs throughout Maryland. The three programs are: Greenbelt CARES Youth and Family Services Bureau, the CARES Teen Discussion Groups, and the Greenbelt Police School Resource Officer Program.

Proposed Memorial

Charlene MacAdams, treasurer of the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee, presented a proposed design for a memorial in Schrom Hills Park. She said the memorial would commemorate people who had done great things for the city, not just for Greenbelt East. The design calls for a low stone monument with names listed on a metal plaque or carved into the stone. Councilmember Edward Putens called the proposed design, which includes park benches in a green area, a "simple, peaceful design." Council referred the proposal for comment to the Community Relations Advisory Board, the Park and Recreation Advisory Board and the Advisory Planning Board.

Parking Restrictions Proposed

The Advisory Planning Board, in report 98-04, recommended that the city council pass a law imposing a 72-hour parking limit on all city street and municipal parking lots. The board also called for development of a special exception policy, on an occasional basis, to handle situations where citizens may need to park a vehicle for a longer time. The proposed restriction would respond to problems, primarily in the North End, of vehicle owners parking multiple vehicles on city streets for extended times. The board also called for the restriction to be enforced only on a complaint basis. This, in effect, would allow more than 72 hours of parking, as a vehicle would presumably have to be parked for a few days before someone complained, at which point the city would check to see if it remained for an additional 72 hours. This proposal will be discussed at the June 22 regular council meeting.

Higher Handbill Penalties

An ordinance increasing the fines for illegally distributing handbills to residences posted with no handbills or no solicitors notices was introduced. The fine for the first offense will remain at $400. A second offense will now bring an $800 fine and subsequent violations penalties of $1,000, the maximum fine for a municipal infraction. The ordinance is in response to the continuing violations by a small number of companies who, according to city staff, appear to be treating the current fine as a cost of doing business. This ordinance will be considered for final passage at the June 22 regular council meeting.

Legislative Priorities

Council identified the legislative priorities to present to the Maryland Municipal League. These are increased funding for prevention programs targeting youth and a requirement that absentee landlords have a local representative who can grant access to the property. McLaughlin gave one example of the need for such a requirement. A Greenbriar resident complained of water leaking into his/her unit from the unit above, a rental unit. When the tenant refused access to the city's Code Enforcement staff, the city had no legal authority to enter the unit without permission of the owner. The owner, unfortunately, was not local and was difficult to contact.

Council also asked the Maryland Municipal League to seek an evaluation of the purpose and function of the State Highway Administration. This request stemmed from a proposal from councilmember Alan Turnbull to seek legislation stating that the state highway system is now complete and that funds may only be spent on maintaining the roads now in place. However, councilmember Edward Putens noted that little can be done legislatively, since the State Highway Administration is under the jurisdiction of the governor. City Solicitor Robert Manzi said that the only legislative control of an executive agency is through the budget. The General Assembly, however, could tell the SHA that it could not spend any money for new roads. Councilmember Rodney Roberts, although generally supportive of Turnbull's proposal, noted that a ban on new roads is dependent upon land use planning. Much of that process, he said, is still "helter-skelter."

Post Office

Council approved a letter telling the U.S. Postal Service that it is willing to discuss that agency's request to remove the covenants on a five-acre tract of land at the northeast corner of Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive.

Historical Society Holds Attic Sale

The Prince George's County Historical Society will hold an outdoor Attic Sale on Saturday, June 20, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the grounds of Marietta House Museum, 5626 Bell Station Road, Glenn Dale. All proceeds will benefit the restoration and furnishing of the museum, the early 19th century home of Supreme Court Justice Gabriel Duvall. The Society's Library of County History and the Marietta Gift Shop will be open and tours of the house will be available.

Bring a picnic lunch, enjoy the grounds and pick up some bargains. For more information call 301-464-5291 or TTY 301-699-2544.

Letter sent to parents of 8th grade students

Below is a letter sent on Tuesday to parents of eighth grade students at Greenbelt Middle School:

June 16, 1998

Dear Eighth Grade Parents:

On behalf of the faculty and administration of Greenbelt Middle School, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for attending our Eighth Grade Recognition Program. The huge turnout was evidence of your love and care for our Eighth Grade Students. They were very honored by your presence. Moreover, I felt that this was a true validation of the parent involvement at Greenbelt Middle.

I am extremely regretful that we were unable to accommodate the large crowd in the auditorium at ERHS. As building principal, one of my first responsibilities is to provide a safe and orderly environment for all students and participants of school related activities. The Prince George's County Fire Department determines what is a safe number of people to occupy a public area. Last night's crowd exceeded the safe number for the ERHS Auditorium. It was for the safety of students and parents that we had to limit the number of people in the auditorium. It was very difficult for me to close the doors, but my main concern was your safety.

Already I am exploring alternative sites for next year to accommodate the large numbers of loving parents and family members. I am sorry for your disappointment last evening. I hope you will understand that the decisions were made with safety as my primary consideration.

I wish you and your family a wonderful summer!

Sincerely,
Dr. Richmond Myrick
Principal

We extend our condolences to former mayor Toni Bram and her family on the death of her mother, Marie Houck.

Our sympathy to Rick Ransom and his family on the death of his mother, longtime Greenbelter Mary Atwater Ransom.

Condolences to Steven Hooper, on the death of his brother Stanley.

Sorry to hear of the death of Marvin Nussbaum. Our sympathy to his wife, Elaine.

We send sympathy to Peg Shorter, Beverly Brooks, Barbara Gardner and Norman Brooks whose aunt, Florence Buonocore, died at Green Ridge House on Tuesday.

Bhameney Miriam Fishbeck, of Plateau Place, wife of News Review staffer Tom Fishbeck, was made an American citizen at a ceremony in Upper Marlboro on June 5. She is a former Trinidad national. Joining her in becoming citizens through their mother were children Elizabeth, Winston, and Karen. Welcome, all!

too small. The fire hazard is there."

While many parents and family members were griping, most were complying with police directives. However, a spokesperson for the fire marshal's office said that some parents "were pretty unruly." One person in particular, she said, was getting vocal and started yelling at the police, causing others to join in.

Police then decided to escort the overflow participants outside the building. According to Greenbelt Police, during this process of moving the gathering outside, a camera operator was injured when Greenbelt officers attempted to move the crowd.

Cameraman Injured

According to Handy in his television broadcast report, the police officer "dove on top of" a News 4 cameraman. Handy claimed that the cameraman was "standing where he was instructed to be outside the building." The injured cameraman was taken to Doctor's Hospital where he was released later that evening. According to News 4, the cameraman suffered a broken collar bone. On the Tuesday evening newscast, Anchorman Jim Vance said "NBC4 is pursuing charges through the Prince George's County State's Attorney's Office."

The Greenbelt Police Department is investigating the incident according to City Manager Michael McLaughlin. Police handed out some 50 witness statement forms at the scene of the incident.

Police Chief James Craze told the News Review, "I think the officers generally conducted themselves in a very professional manner. We were not given proper notice of this event, and were outnumbered by the enormous crowd."

"Six police officers were on duty and we called in others," said Craze, adding that help came also from Prince George's County Police Department and the Sheriff's office.

No arrests were made. Investigation is continuing regarding the injured cameraman and his encounter with a police officer ... We also want to look at why the disturbance took place and how to avoid a recurrence."

School Comments

Local area school board member, Suzanne Plogman, attended the ceremony. Since she was on the stage, she did not see the happenings outside the auditorium, although Greenbelt Middle School Principal Richmond Myrick told her there was a problem.

She said that this was at least the third time that the promotion ceremony had been held at the Roosevelt auditorium, and on the other occasions, the facility had worked out very well. She believed that Dr. Myrick and his staff simply did not expect the turnout to be so large this time. Plans are already in the works to make certain that the affair is either held in a larger facility, or that a ticket system is instituted.

Dr. Myrick has sent a letter (see box) to parents apologizing for the incident.
